Vacation Time Ends As Americans Turn To Fall's Prospects

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP).—America took its last plunge in summer recreation today before turning more serious eyes toward winter's prospects.

For millions this 49th celebration of Labor Day opened a new vista of hope, bolstered by every tangible straw of business encouragement. Shortly now, fall business demands should make their full force felt throughout the nation.

Many of the others—estimated at 11,400,000 by the American Federation of Labor that sponsored the holiday—saw in this seasonal turning point an end to their jobless days.

At least two groups in the country's life found their immediate outlook well defined. Millions of youngsters turned sadly back to school textbooks; thousands of political workers rolled up their sleeves for two months of intense campaigning before the next president of the United States is chosen.

Hoover Resting.

Forecasters promised generally fair weather today for the hundreds of thousands seeking rest and relaxation at seashore and mountain resorts before the trek back to office, job and farm. Anxious as any for clearer skies was President Hoover, resting over the week-end at his Virginia camp.

It was cool on the Rapidan, but low-hanging clouds had wrapped the camp in mist. The President spent much of his time indoors, talking with advisers and guests. He planned a complete rest that eliminated any participation in the Labor Day ceremonies.

These were held throughout the nation. Here, the fireman's parade marched its annual course up Pennsylvania avenue. Companies from New York, Delaware, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland joined in the procession that filed past Governor Ritchie of Maryland in the reviewing stand.

Only one cabinet officer—Postmaster General Brown—was in the city. Secretary Wilbur of the interior department was expected back during the day, however, from a conference with Mr. Hoover.

Doak To Speak

Secretary Doak of the labor department was en route to Syracuse, N. Y., to make an address opening the state fair. His support has been pledged to organized labor's renewed efforts this year for a 5-day work week, the subject today of a national radio address by Frank Morrison, Secretary of the Labor Federation.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said in a formal statement that workers "have refused to listen to the false preachings of demagogues and dangerous prophets."

"Let us continue along that safe and sane pathway in the year that lies ahead," Lewis said, "hoping, praying and believing that better times and better things are in store for us."

ROOSEVELT ASSURED OF HARMONY IN NEW ENGLAND

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—Armed with further assurances that party differences in New England will heal before election, Governor Roosevelt was preparing for two more campaign appearances, one of them in Vermont, within the next two days.

Gerry, who was a pre-convention supporter of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, told the candidate he believed feeling which grew out of Smith's failure to obtain the Democratic nomination would soon fade.

He expressed belief that many independent votes would go to the Democratic ticket because of "the prohibition stand of the party and its candidates and the unemployment situation in Rhode Island."

Mrs. Sayre, the former Jessie Wilson, daughter of the late president, said she believed that the gubernatorial candidacy of Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts would knit the party together in the Bay State. Governor Ely, who also was a strong Smith supporter, has pledged his support to the Roosevelt candidacy.

LAKE FREIGHTER MAY HOLD SECRET OF BOY

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—An unnamed lake freighter, which steamed toward a storm tossed rowboat in which a boy was drifting in Lake Ontario, was believed today to hold the secret of the boy's disappearance yesterday.

The overturned rowboat in which the boy, 14 year old William Wiedrich of Batavia, had been blown out into the lake, was found floating last night near where the freighter had been seen to stop.

Mrs. John Wiedrich, the boy's mother, said that as residents of Troutburg, who had seen the drifting boat, prepared to go to the boy's rescue, the freighter appeared, stopped, then went on. The boy had no oars in his boat.

Bicycle Reported Stolen

John Purvis of 12 Prince street reported to the police Saturday that his bicycle had been stolen from the Y. M. C. A. that day.

Erie Trackwalker Found in River

James Napier, fifty-nine, an Erie railroad track walker of Marlborough, was found drowned Saturday in the Hudson River, thirty-five feet from the shore and about a quarter of a mile south of the Orange county line. While it was believed that Napier's death was the result of accidental drowning, a gash near the right eye indicated his death might have been the result of violence.

The fact that Napier usually carried $50 or more in cash in his pocket and was reported to have had at least $70 with him when he went on duty yesterday afternoon, lent color to the theory that he might have been murdered. When the body was found today the only money in his pockets was a 50 cent piece.

Under Sheriff Bert Truesdell of Orange county held a tramp for questioning in connection with the case on the outcome of the autopsy by Coroner Andrew Calyer. The tramp gave his name as Earl Douglas, Negro, originally from Virginia, and now homeless.

Napier's body was found after an all night search at 8:30 a. m. by Victor Fromel, a friend from Marlborough. Until it was discovered that only 50 cents remained in the pockets of the dead man, it was supposed the death had been accidental.

Napier's beat extended for a distance of two miles along the river, and it is possible that he become dizzy while crossing one of the small trestles and fell into the water.

He had been suffering from high blood pressure and the erratic punching of the time clocks on his beat indicated he had not been making his trips regularly yesterday. The time clock records showed he had punched the clock at 2:30, 4, 5, and 10:30 p. m. He was supposed to punch the clock every hour.

New President Casting For Cabinet

Mexico City, Sept. 5 (AP).—Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, 32-year-old compatriot of General Plutarco Elis Calles, Mexico's "man of iron," began his first day as president of the republic by casting about for a cabinet.

In the meantime former President Ortiz Rubio was on his way to Hot Springs, Ark., to seek renewed health. He said he probably would stay at Hot Springs several months.

General Rodriguez, also known as a "man of iron," comes from the state of Sonora.

He entered accompanied by most of the retiring cabinet ministers. He was sworn in while a squadron of airplanes circled over the building.

He pledged himself immediately to continue the existing friendly relations with the United States and said he would form a "serious national government which will be characterized by unit and action and which will carry confidence and tranquility to the republic."

The choice of General Rodriguez as Mexico's new president was approved by former President Calles.

"I have absolute faith that the new government will be strong, respected and harmonious," he added.

Schedule For Part-Time Pupils

All boys and girls who should attend the part time or continuation school are required to register in the manual arts building at the high school, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., on Tuesday, Wednesday or Friday, September 6, 7 or 9. Employers and parents are held by law responsible for the attendance of boys and girls who are 14, 15 and 16 years of age and who are not in regular attendance upon full time public or private schools. The educational law requires the attendance of these children for four continuous hours per week. Most classes are held on Saturday morning from 8 o'clock until 12 noon, and a variety of courses are given. Parents are urged to come with the pupils when they register so they might know more of truth concerning the school and see the opportunities the children have.

FARM STRIKERS GO BACK TO THEIR FARMS

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 5 (AP)—Labor Day found virtually all the mid-west striking farmers back on the farms, or taking a holiday far from the troubled scenes of the "war" for higher prices.

The highways leading into Sioux City, storm center of the fight to withhold produce from the market until a larger return could be realized, were virtually free of picketing farmers. So, too, were roads from northeastern Nebraska. In Iowa and South Dakota only a few points were being guarded by protesting agriculturalists.

BODY OF YONKERS MAN FOUND IN RIVER OFF HIGHLAND

The body of Louis Blum, 69, of Yonkers, who had been reported missing since August 29, was found in the Hudson river off Highland on Sunday, according to a message received over the teletype machine in police headquarters here today. The dead man resided at 129 Buckingham, R. D., Yonkers.

War Veterans Line Up Behind VonPapen Cabinet In Display

Million German War Veterans Pledge Support to Von Hindenburg and Chancellor Von Papen—Swear Oath to Former Colors.

Berlin, Sept. 5 (AP)—Chancellor Von Papen and President Von Hindenburg were free to go forward today with their plans for holding the government and rehabilitating the Reich, backed by the pledged support of representatives of more than a million German war veterans.

In the most brilliant military display since the days of the Kaiser, nearly 200,000 members of the national helmet organization paraded at Tempelhof Airdrome yesterday and shouted "front heil!" for the chancellor as he appeared with his staff to review the spectacle.

A similar lusty cheer went up to greet the aged field marshal August Von Mackensen as he arrived in the uniform of the black Hussars.

Promise "Loyal Support"

In a message to President Von Hindenburg, who is an honorary member of the organization, the steel helmeters sent their respectful greeting and promised their "loyal support to the independent government that will battle for and win freedom for the German nation, both internally and externally."

"May the spirit of unity and valor inspire all classes," the aged president replied, "with the dignity and strength to raise the fatherland to its rightful position."

In the soldierly bearing of the marching thousands at the airdrome there was every indication these men could quickly swell the ranks of the present army if and when Germany completes her negotiations for modification of the Versailles treaty.

The tramp of marching feet resounded for six hours as the battalions passed in review before the chancellor, who was accompanied by General Kurt Von Schleicher, defense minister, Baron Wilhelm Von Gayl, minister of interior and other cabinet members, wearing the uniform of generals of the army. Several of the Hohenzollern princes hovered in the background.

Declaring that "the old German army is no more, but its spirit still lives," Seldte and Duesterberg swore the steel helmeters to a solemn oath of allegiance to the old imperial colors, the black, white and red.

"HALFMOON" REPLICA AT COHOES FIRE VICTIM

An alleged incendiary fire aboard the replica of Hendrick Hudson's "Halfmoon" at East Side Park, Cohoes, Sunday afternoon is being investigated by police. This is the second fire of mysterious origin to visit the craft in the last year.

The fire was confined to charred wood on the deck of the craft and firemen believe it was caused by boys. The blaze was discovered about 4:45, firemen kept one stream of water playing on the boat for more than a half hour.

About a year ago the vessel was almost destroyed by fire.

At that time Former Mayor James P. Dooley offered a reward of $100 for the apprehension of the "party or parties" responsible but they were never found.

The Halfmoon was built at the time of the Hudson-Fulton celebration and later was moored at Cohoes. The Clermont replica is moored in the lagoon at Kingston Point Park where it has been since its tour up and down the river at the time of the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

TWO MEN COMMITTED TO ULSTER COUNTY JAIL

Peter Van Leuvan, 49, of Gardiner and Edward Bingham, 62, formerly of Albany, were committed to the Ulster county jail Sunday by Justice Joseph Deyo of Gardiner. Van Leuven for 10 days on a charge of public intoxication and Bingham for 30 days for disorderly conduct.

VanLenven was sentenced to Dannemora in 1930, but was transferred last spring to the Medium Security Prison at Wallkill. About the first of July he was released on parole by order of the parole board. Bingham had been temporarily employed at the Wallkill prison as a night watchman, but had been discharged last week by Dr. Palmer for conduct unsatisfactory to the prison authorities.

OFFICIALS DECLARE SMITHS CONFESS KILLING JOE BETTS

Urbana, O., Sept. 5 (AP).—A confession that they killed Joe Betts, 46, thirty months ago, was obtained, officials said today, from Clifford Smith, 26, and his wife, Dorothy, 24.

Prosecutor W. M. Vance said Smith confessed he hit Betts with an auto jack handle when he found the insurance man with his wife on March 2, 1930, and then forced his wife, under threat of death, to shoot Betts in the head. Together, their confessions said, they removed the body to Betts's garage.

A nine-months old baby was bruised on the head when a Chevrolet car owned by William C. Smith of Chatham, and a Chevrolet truck driven by Michael Sarkis of 29 East Strand, collided at Delaware avenue and Broadway. The baby was Chauncey, the young son of Mr. Smith.

5 Persons Dead, 10 Hurt In Accidents Over The Week-End

Three Women and Man Died in Wreckage of Two Automobiles Near Poughkeepsie—Seven Hurt in Same Crash.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP). Five persons were dead and ten injured today as a result of automobile accidents yesterday on New York highways busy with week-end traffic.

Near Poughkeepsie three women and a man, not definitely identified early today, died in the wreckage of their automobile when it collided with a larger machine, injuring seven others. The dead man, believed to have owned the smaller car, was tentatively identified as Matthew Singer, 1703 Andrews avenue, The Bronx. One of the women was believed to be Yetta Cumisky, address unknown, and the others were believed to be relatives of Singer's.

Mrs. Mary Gurin, 3410 Tibbett avenue, The Bronx, her chauffeur and five guests were injured in the other car, which burned. Mrs. Gurin had a fractured skull, and Thomas Kenney, 24, of the same address had internal injuries. The others, less seriously hurt were Anna Kenney, eight; Kathleen Kenney, 21; Kiernan Kenney, 26, and Celia McGoughry, 23, all of the Tibbett avenue address, and Philip Hayden, the chauffeur.

Near Syracuse, Margaret Waterworth, 15, of Rosedale, Mich., was killed in an automobile collision, and her mother, Mrs. Jessie Waterworth, 46, was injured.

Two Amsterdam men, Dominick Amadeau, 43, and Frank Napolitano, 53, were believed to have fractured skulls after their automobile left a highway near Amsterdam and struck a pole.

Amazing Cracksmen Loot Chicago Bank

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP).—Loot variously estimated from $100,000 to $13,000,000 was taken by a gang of robbers from the safety deposit vaults of Koch and Company on South Halstead street, but until the operation of a time lock Tuesday morning no definite check will be obtainable.

A gang of at least eight men held 10 persons prisoners in the building for 14 hours, bored through the floor of a second floor apartment, and burned their way into the vault. They then smashed about 350 safety deposit boxes, took their pick of the contents, and fled at 4 a. m., yesterday.

The robbers penetrated two layers of armor plate with a combined thickness of 15 inches. The hole they made was small and entrance through it was difficult so officials of the firm planned to wait until the time lock releases the vault door Tuesday before making a check of the loss.

Police at first estimated the loss would run from $250,000 to $1,000,000 but company officials said they doubted that the loot would exceed $100,000.

Two of the gang Saturday halted George Laschetzke, street car conductor, as he started for his third floor flat in the building, telling him they were government agents after an escaped convict. They gained entrance to his place, then displayed revolvers, forced his wife and her mother into a bathroom. While one guarded Laschetzke, the other called four or five men from a parked automobile.

When Robert Kruse, 20, nephew of Laschetzke and caretaker of the building appeared, the men forced him to let them enter his apartment on the second floor. The men, obtaining keys from Kruse, surveyed the office under his apartment, returned upstairs and cut a hole through the floor over the vault.

Meanwhile, two of the gang acted as guards over the ten members of the Kruse and Laschetzke families. The guards laughed and joked with the children and permitted the women to prepare food for the families.

They completed their work quietly and left after cutting telephone wires.

World's Fastest Sporting Event Ends Air Classic

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (AP). The world's fastest sporting event, the 100-mile free-for-all airplane race, provided the grand finale today to the twelfth annual national air races.

Only uncertainties of the weather, trickiest foe of airmen, stood between ten veteran pilots and the starting bomb at 5 p. m. An even chance was forecast for calm weather and good visibility.

Meanwhile, race officials attempted to iron out difficulties which sprang from the women's high speed free-for-all, flown in a driving rainstorm yesterday and dragged down because of the hazardous conditions after four of the scheduled eight laps were completed.

Mrs. Mae Hartlip, winner of second place behind Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Calif., protested she purposely had kept her plane throttled down, expecting to spurt to victory in the final four laps.

Seven Qualified.

Seven stream lined racing ships, little more than winged motors, stood qualified for the men's 100-mile free-for-all. Each had surpassed the necessary 200 miles an hour average speed necessary to admittance to the elite circle of competitors and three others were poised for qualifying before the official starting time.

The three Jimmies, Major James H. Doolittle, James G. Haizlip and James R. Wedell were considered foremost contenders. Doolittle qualified his powerful low winged monoplane at 309 miles an hour and then flew it three times more over the three kilometer course to a new unofficial world's land-plane speed record of 296 miles an hour.

Haizlip Ready.

His flying comrade, Haizlip, winner of $10,000 in prizes during the nine days of racing already passed, primed the same black-nosed monoplane for the speed race that enabled him to fly from Los Angeles to New York in ten hours and 19 minutes and succeed Doolittle as trans-nation record holder. It was that plane Mrs. Haizlip flew in the women's high speed event.

Wedell, the Patterson, La., flier, who designed and built Haizlip's ship, qualified a duplicate for himself and saw Col. Roscoe C. Turner of Los Angeles push a third plane to the necessary speed.

The contest committee, meeting last night, upheld the outcome of the women's free-for-all on grounds that rules of the federation aeronautic international prescribe that a race may be halted on or after the half way mark, and the position held by the contestants at that point shall be the final positions.

Mrs. Haizlip, however, said she would reopen the matter and, unless the race was reflown, would withdraw from racing as long as the national air races are held under Cleveland management.

LABOR SECRETARY TALKS FOR SHORTER WORK-WEEK

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP).—The tendency toward a shorter work-day and a short work-week was termed "irresistible" today by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

He made this statement in a radio address over the National Broadcasting system in which he discussed the significance of Labor Day and the organized labor movement.

"Labor continues its struggle for the right to bargain collectively and select its own representatives in negotiating wage contracts," Morrison said. * * *

"I venture the opinion that an old age pension system in this country is inevitable. Sentiment for this legislation will grow as the mechanization of industry is intensified and as scientific processes become more general, with consequent enlargement of the number of unemployed.

"The same forces are driving industry to a 5-day week and a shorter work day. * * * The present business depression with 11,000,000 idle workmen is the best defense of our shorter work-week demanded. * * *

"In the political field the American Federation of Labor is non-partisan. * * * An active political campaign has been carried on * * * for the purpose of electing our avowed friends and members of our unions to the Congress of the United States . . . and to all other offices where the interests of labor can be served."

Schenck Says He Was Held Captive

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP). The strange story of Garret Schenck, Jr., Hopewell, N. J., fish monger, that he was kidnaped and held captive by a private detective for 24 days following the Lindbergh baby kidnaping occupied the attention of federal, state and county investigators today.

Schenck was found Saturday in a mountain cabin and brought to Johnstown. He says that, while he sold fish to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, he never had seen their baby.

After being questioned all Saturday night, Schenck was taken to Clearfield yesterday. He is voluntarily in the custody of Sheriff Ira McCloskey of Clearfield county. He says he will not leave until all angles of the case are cleared up.

Sheriff McCloskey says he intends to lay the matter before the district attorney.

Schenck is glad to be free. He says that while his captors treated him "all right", he was constantly afraid of what might happen to him. He says he was too frightened to sleep "because they had guns there and I was afraid that if I went to sleep I wouldn't awake alive."

Schenck was freed after he persuaded one of his guards to tell Mayor Eddie McCloskey of Johnstown of his plight. A raiding party found him alone in the cabin and brought him to Johnstown.

He was bewildered by events of the last two and one-half months. His first concern was for his folks in New Jersey. Then he asked for a haircut.

Various agencies of the law, cooperating in the investigation, plan to quiz Schenck further today.

Rio Grande Flood Damage Mounts

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 5 (AP). The Rio Grande River, sometimes so shallow smugglers wade from Mexico into the United States, but now a torrent that has taken possibly a dozen lives and done unprecedented damage, today swirled down from Laredo into the fertile gardening and citrus orchard district of the lower valley.

At Laredo the number of dead was still uncertain. Four men of a group variously estimated at 15 to 20 were rescued after two spans of the International Railway bridge collapsed as they stood on it watching the flood. One man fought his way through the flood to Nuevo Laredo across the river. The other three were saved after clinging for 16 hours to driftwood lodged against the international footbridge downstream.

Though the flood had subsided sufficiently to allow passage across the International Bridge at Laredo, it was piled high with driftwood and the crossing remained difficult.

Great damage was done in Nuevo Laredo, many blocks being covered with water while the flood was at its height. The amount of the damage to highways, railroads, bridges, livestock, and farming land on both sides of the river could not be estimated.

Doak Will Speak At State Fair Today

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP). New York state's annual fair was the background today for the address by William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor, launching President Hoover's campaign attack in the home state of his Democratic opponent, Governor Roosevelt.

Secretary Doak's appearance at the opening day of the state fair carried the Hoover campaign into the heart of the Roosevelt home territory. Thousands of New Yorkers each year flock to Syracuse for the exhibits.

Tomorrow, however, hot on the heels of the Hoover emissary will come Mr. Roosevelt himself. A visit to the fair is an annual custom for New York governors.

TICKET COST HER $1; POLICEMAN HIS COFFEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 5 (AP). It used to be that Policeman Clifford Detienne could walk right into Mrs. Edna China's restaurant and enjoy a free cup of coffee, but those days are gone forever.

Mrs. China told Judge A. J. Hedding in district court all about how Policeman Detienne killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

"I went out and found a ticket on my car," she said. "It had been parked for six months in the same spot and I never got a ticket. And that ends his free coffees and kidding of my waitresses."

Judge Hedding said the ticket would cost $1. She paid.

HENRY FORD IS GOING TO PROVIDE FREE EDUCATION

Tecumseh, Mich., Sept. 5 (AP). Henry Ford is going to provide free education this year for children of the North Branch school district. He has purchased the school building, is having it reconstructed and classes are expected to start within ten days.

When the purchase was made, a spokesman for Ford said the school would be conducted without expense to the district.

Gar Wood Defeated Kaye Don To Retain Harmsworth Trophy

Don's Boat, Miss England III, Developed Motor Trouble at Start of Race and Had To Be Towed to Boatwell.

Harmsworth Course, Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5 (AP). The jinx rode with Kaye Don's Miss England III today and eliminated him from the second and final heat of the Harmsworth trophy race after a flying start against Gar Wood, trophy defender.

Developing mechanical difficulties almost as he crossed the starting line a little less than a second ahead of Wood's Miss America X, Don made an heroic effort to keep his craft in the race. Steadily losing power, however, he came to a complete stop about a mile from the end of the second seven-mile lap of the course.

Wood meanwhile, loafed around the course, averaging only 69.034 miles an hour to win the heat and retain the noted British international trophy for at least another year.

Unable To Finish.

Contending with the trouble he had in the first heat Saturday, Don was unable to finish today's heat. With his mechanic, Dick Garner, he tried vainly to get his craft going again to give the 200,000 or more spectators the thrill they sought in getting out to the Lake St. Clair course long before daylight.

Their efforts were futile, however, and he finally accepted a tow back to his boatwell.

After seeing his Miss England put into her boatwell, Don said his starboard engine quieted soon after the two boats flashed over the starting line.

At length the second motor stopped also and Don and his mechanic, after trying unsuccessfully to get under way, accepted a tow.

No one in the Don party was prepared to say what the nature of the engine trouble was. Some time may be necessary to determine the difficulty, they said.

Miss England's time for the single lap it completed was 8:05.26, which reduced to statute miles, was at a speed of only 59.798 miles an hour.

Made Slow Time.

Wood's greatest speed today was in the initial seven-mile lap of the 35 nautical mile course. He covered it in 6:11.45, a speed of 78.120 statute miles an hour. After that he reduced his speed steadily, cutting it down in the succeeding laps to 72.347, 69.389, 64.536 and 62.907 statute miles an hour.

At no time did he display the more than 120-miles-an-hour gait with which his America X has been officially credited. After the race, Wood expressed his regrets that ill luck had followed Don.

"We got away to a beautiful start," he said, "and had Don been able to keep going I am sure we would have had a splendid race and shown some real speed."

He intimated he would soon try for a new one-mile world record with his Miss America X. The record now is held by Don, who drove his Miss England III at a speed of 119.81 miles an hour.

Wood's 7th Race

Last year Don defeated Wood in the first heat and established a new average speed for the Harmsworth race at 89.913 miles an hour.

In the second heat, however, he followed Wood across the starting line far ahead of the gun and both were automatically disqualified. A mile farther on his boat foundered. The race was declared "no contest."

Today's race lasted 25 minutes. Except for the beautiful start that saw the world's two speediest hydroplanes roar across the line less than a second apart, it carried virtually no thrills for the multitudes who packed the shore line and the other thousands who found vantage points on ferries, freighters, cruisers and scores of other crafts on the offshore side of the course.

THREE AWAIT HEARINGS ON LARCENY CHARGES.

Frank Mottsey, 17, Augustus Parker, 16, and James Saunders, Jr., 21, all of East Kingston, were brought to the Ulster county jail this morning to await a hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon before Justice Webber on a charge of petit larceny.

The three young men were arrested about 1 o'clock this morning by Deputy Sheriff Wesley Halwick after they had driven up to the town storehouse in the town of Ulster and entered the shed where oil and gasoline are stored.

The town has been missing oil and gasoline for some time and Deputy Halwick has been watching the premises. When the three men entered the shed they were arrested and taken before Justice Webber.

FINDS BLINDNESS NO DISADVANTAGE

Lawyer Just Works Harder Than Other Fellow.

Chicago—Sightless eyes are no disadvantage to Herbert Geisler, lawyer, who considers that he got a "break" when at the age of seven years, a childish accident at the hands of a rough playmate left him blind.

"I just work harder than the other fellow," said Geisler. "That's the only reason I won honors in school, and the only reason I win cases in courts. I'm not afraid of work, and I do it more cheerfully than the lawyers who can see."

Geisler, who is twenty-eight years old, and has been engaged in a general law practice for three years, was president of his class and made a brilliant record in John Marshall high school.

He entered the University of Chicago and made exceptional grades in the three years of pre-law work, and entered the law school, graduating in 1929 with the highest honors of his class.

He also was president of his class in the law school, and was elected to the Order of the Coif, an honorary law scholastic fraternity. Geisler was chairman of the University of Chicago editors of the Illinois Law Review, and won the Wiggin robe prize for scholarship in his second year.

"I find the fact that I cannot see no disadvantage to me in the courts. In examination of witnesses it is not their facial expression that reveals whether they are telling the truth, but their words."

Geisler has a reader, and in addition is proficient in reading the Braille system. He rapidly takes notes for courtroom use on the Braille typewriter, and in the courtroom takes notes in Braille with the stylus.

He swims, dances, bowls, takes long walks and is fond of fishing. Although totally blind, he leads an active, normal life.

He's known among fellows who were his classmates in law school as a good sport, a keen mind and an excellent companion.

Blind "Spectators" Cheer at Blind Girl Rowers

London.—A rowing race between two crews of blind girls recently was held on the Thames. Sightless "spectators" cheered from the banks, with remarkable powers of divining which she'll (that of the Swiss Cottage Blind school, or of the Sports club) was ahead.

A witness, standing near one of the blind cheerers, has described the event as he saw it at Putney, above the city.

"The boat nearest shore is ahead, isn't it?" cried the sightless girls. "It's the Sports club crew!"

In a moment her face fell.

"Something's wrong; they're missing," she said.

The in-shore boat was, in fact, in difficulties. One of the crew had "caught a crab"; valuable time was lost; the other shell took the lead and held it across the finish line.

The prize for which these two blind crews raced for the first time was—a "sightseeing" tour of Windsor!

Japanese Adopt "Heebie Jeebies" as Slang Word

Tokyo.—American "talkies" have given Japanese a slang word to express the national state of mind following the terroristic events of May 15, culminating in the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai by a group of army and navy officers.

The word is "heebie jeebies," and is defined as meaning a "state of extreme perturbation, nervousness and worry, accompanied by irritability and panic."

Japanese patrons of the talkies who obtained a definition of the word from New York tourists, feel it fits their national case to perfection and ought to be incorporated in the language, as thousands of other American slang words have been. The expression "okay" was adopted by the Japanese after scores of new American motor cars appeared on the streets with blue placards on their windshields announcing they had been passed by inspectors as "okay."

Unhurt in Car Crash, Nurse Dies of Fright

New York.—Miss Elsie Cob, twenty-three years old, a nurse at the Creedmoor State hospital, died in Jamaica hospital following an automobile collision a few hours earlier. Hospital authorities said that so far as they could learn Miss Cob was physically unhurt, but the shock brought on an attack of hysteria which affected her heart. This caused her death.

Archery Practice Ruins House Walls

When the rain began to fall MacCollister moved his target practice into the house. A wall, MacCollister found, made an excellent target for his arrows.

But Mrs. Robert Parson, owner of the home in which MacCollister was living, objected. She told the court her walls were pockmarked with arrow holes. MacCollister paid to have the room replastered.

South Sea "Metropolis"

Papeete, in Tahiti is one of the most important and populous of the South Sea islands. The chief town, Papeete, has about 4,000 inhabitants. The climate is agreeable and the natural vegetation beautiful and luxuriant. Tahiti is a French colony.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press.)

Milwaukee—Andrew Wisniewski found that children are not legal tender. Summoned to court about a $35 debt to a furniture company he offered two of his children to satisfy the creditor. "I am rich in children and nothing else," he said. The startled judge vetoed the offer and dismissed the action.

Eldora, Iowa—The village fathers have found out why the town clock gained time the first half of each hour and slowed up the second half. A couple of pigeons would perch on the big hand when it was going down. They'd stay there until it pointed downward at such an angle that they lost their grip. Later they would get aboard for the upward ride.

Los Angeles—A thumping that came from underground proved a hot tip for Patrolman Ray R. McClelland. He found a tunnel leading from a store to a spot underneath a bank vault holding $160,000. A man was arrested in the store.

Chicago—"Tsk! Tsk!" said a crowd as it gathered around a youth slumped over a shotgun alongside a curb. "It's a pity, such a young man being a gang victim." A policeman ran up. "Stand back," he bellowed. "Don't touch the corpse until the coroner comes." Just then the corpse awoke. "What's all the excitement?" he said. "I'm awaiting a friend to go hunting and I just fell asleep a moment."

Toronto, Ont.—Time has dimmed Adolf's eye and made his voice raucous, but he's still a prize winning toulouse goose. Adolf, whose master is M. Shantz of Ayr, Ont., has been winning medals at the Canadian National Exhibition a quarter century. This year he had to be content with a second prize, while a couple of his great, great grandchildren honked their way into first places.

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, Sept. 3.—School children and parents are requested to note that school will open Tuesday, September 6, the day after Labor Day, at 9 o'clock D. S. T. All pupils will please report promptly. Mrs. Jansen, Miss Feinberg and Miss Van Demark will be ready for the work.

The Rev. Mr. Dangremond is in town. His wife is visiting their daughter in Germany.

Mrs. Hubert Smith and daughter, Miss Minifred Smith, are visiting in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Kingston were in town on Thursday evening.

The weather has been intensely warm and the summer guests who had to return to the city were loath to leave.

Mrs. Mary Brooks and Mrs. Elizabeth Alsdorf were callers at Locust Hevest Cottage.

Isaac Ghear, who was a former pupil of Miss Mary C. Van Wagenen, made her a present of some delicious fruit for her birthday.

Everyone was watching the eclipse of the sun, which took place on Wednesday afternoon.

Alsace Architecture

Alsace, the incomparable province which two nations have often fought for, is green and lovely between river and mountain, with Strasbourg its capital. Whether you direct your journey towards the south, where you can visit Colmar and Mulhouse, or even smaller towns such as Thann and Turckheim, or whether you go to the north, to Haguenau, you will find towns and villages all crowded together with little resemblance. There are towers, steeples, churches with porches, wells, fountains, oriel windows, loggias with projecting corbelling and every kind of architecture.

Remarkable Bird Species

An amazing account of his visit to one of the haunts of the strange birds called hoatzins is given by William Beebe in his book, "Jungle Peace." Mr. Beebe says the hoatzin is probably the most remarkable and interesting bird living in the world today. It has successfully defied time and space. There has been less change in it than in any other form of organic life. Mr. Beebe says that these queer birds renew for our inspection the youth of bird life upon the earth.

Gave Name to University

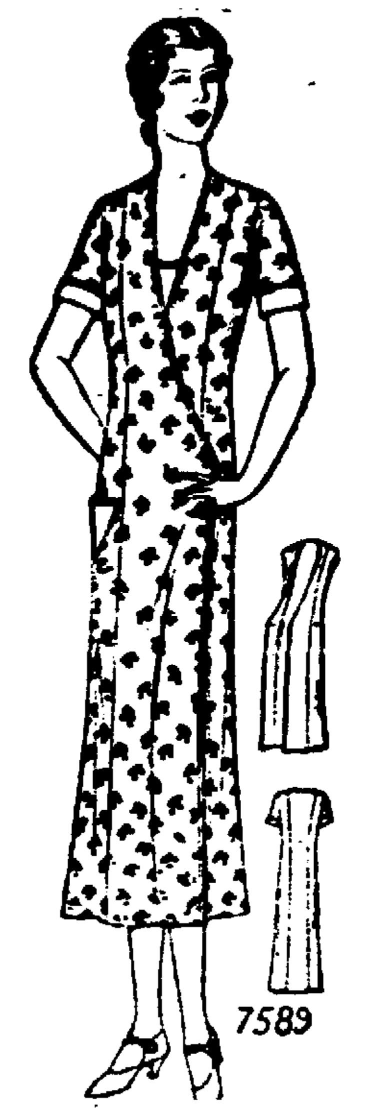

James McGill was born in Scotland in 1744. He came to Canada in 1770 and entered the fur trade. He accumulated a fortune as a merchant at Montreal, became a member of parliament and was a brigadier general in the War of 1812 against the United States. He died in 1813, leaving a will providing for the establishment of the Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning. This official name has given place to the name of McGill university.

Joint Government

The New Hebrides islands have the rare political status of a "condominium," that is to say, they are under the joint administration and sovereignty of two countries—France and Great Britain.

This situation is in effect the political harmonization of century-long rivalries of explorers, missionaries and traders which were not susceptible to a final and definitive solution to the complete advantage of either country.

Cupid Sings The Blues To Rudy

There's A Rift In Crooner's Marriage, His Attorney Announces

Apparently all is not sweet music in the Rudy Vallee household for the Vallees have had a rift and "haven't been getting along so well," the singer's attorney says. Vallee and Mrs. Vallee, the former Fay Webb, stage actress, are shown at right soon after their marriage. In the background is the pretentious home in Beverly Hills, Calif., which the crooner bought as one of their homes.

New York (AP).—The matrimonial sea bearing the good ship Rudy Vallee no longer is as smooth as glass.

Apparently both off-shore and on-shore waves have rocked the craft, for Hyman Bushel, attorney for the crooner, announced publicly that the Vallees "haven't been getting along."

And it has been just a little more than a year since there came out of an almost clear sky the announcement that Vallee had been married secretly. The girl of his choice was Fay Webb, daughter of the chief of police of Santa Monica, Calif., whose career had been centered on the musical comedy stage.

Fay Webb His Ideal

The couple slipped away to West Orange, N. J., July 6, 1931. Two nights later the news came out. The next morning the newlyweds were hosts to newspapermen and photographers in broadcasting studios. Vallee then declared he had found his ideal.

The Vallees had little time for a honeymoon. Rudy was too busy with his stage, radio and other engagements. Hence they crammed the wedding trip into a single day at Atlantic City.

The bridegroom established his wife in an elaborate New York apartment near Central Park, later bought a pretentious home not far from movieland in Beverly Hills, Cal., and purchased a pretty lodge on a lake in the woods of Maine. He called it Happy Valley.

Sorrow soon crept into their lives. Vallee's mother died at Westbrook, Maine. Both attended the funeral.

Back in New York the course of true love went on apace until seven months ago there appeared published reports of difficulties. Rudy emphatically denied any rift.

Meanwhile the dark-eyed and dark-haired Mrs. Vallee began making trips to California, ostensibly to visit her parents. Some were followed by renewed reports of differences. Now comes the attorney's announcement.

Vallee's rise to national prominence reads almost like a book. While he had a big help in radio, he popularized a low-tone type of singing generally called "crooning". At the same time his saxophone playing brought him more attention.

He organized an orchestra, the Connecticut Yankees, and while at Yale played to help himself along. He took the orchestra overseas, and upon returning obtained a job in a New York night club. There his music was broadcast. He quickly caught the ear of many a listener, masculine as well as feminine.

Retains His Popularity

Then network broadcasting beckoned. Vallee was given a good contract which still is running. And his popularity, although he feared his marriage might have some effect upon it, apparently has undergone little change.

While Rudy's singing always has centered on the ballad, since his marriage he has helped to popularize among others "This Is the Missus", "A Little Kiss Each Morning", "Goodnight Sweetheart", "By the Fireside" and "The Thrill Is Gone".

FASHIONS by ELEANOR GUNN

Fashion's Rules for Seven Up

(Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild)

Fall coats for little girls reflect the trends of grown-up fashions. Tucking is a detail which is employed to good advantage. In the model to the right it is introduced in a graduated treatment in the front of the coat which closes high and is bordered with squirrel. The coat is of dark green suede cloth. The self-covered buttons and the bracelet fur bands posed at the elbow are interesting details.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The princess silhouette, continuing the molded bustline and slim diaphragm, is the fundamental contour for dresses.

Fitted lines are retained for full-length coats.

Skirt lengths sustain the covered calf for general daytime and afternoon wear, with instep length for evening.

Woolen dresses are again enormously endorsed; woolen evening dresses are on the increase.

It's Smart to Be Dry on a Rainy Day

New York—Swagger has become a very smart term. It is applied to endless coats this season, most of them with raglan sleeves and no belts, and of a length shorter than the skirts they cover. There is a swaggerish air about the raincoat sketched, although it is not technically a swagger coat. One should go in for jauntiness on dreary days, just to keep up one's morale. Raincoats should be smart and well tailored. They should also be attractive in color and texture. This one is beige, which seems a good choice, since one's umbrella and shoes and hat and gloves may then be almost any color, although preferably brown.

Rainy-day clothes must be so constructed that they stay put and do not go flapping about in the wind. Buttons that really button, and the new frog fastenings, or clips, are all appropriate. Necklines that disclose a scarf are another thought, since the scarf brings in more color and keeps out more rain. Wool ones are best, and plaid woolens are very chic. So are striped ones, tricot and otherwise.

Had you thought of a felt purse to match your felt hat? One rather takes a felt hat for granted in the rain, so a felt purse seems to fit into the scheme amazingly well. There is a new large felt portfolio, equipped with a zipper closing and with a pencil and pad all safely anchored into ... sort of thing to tuck under one's arm on such days as we need both hands to manage umbrella and packages.

There are felt shoes, too—leather trimmed, of course, and sometimes stitched. In fact, there are many useful and effective felt accessories this season, among which may be mentioned collar-and-cuff sets and little jackets. Furs are not at their best in a downpour, nor is there anything more ruinous to them.

One assumes that only necessity takes one out in bad weather, but the business of keeping dry must be gone about without loss to one's personal charm.

Deauville Reacts Against The Sunburn Craze

Deauville—There seems to be a reaction here against the excessive sunburn craze of former years. Instead of taking a sun bath on the beach after the morning dip, most people drift up to the Bar du Soleil for an aperitif, and although the women don sunback pajamas or beach aprons for this, little jackets cover the bare backs, and huge sun hats afford further protection. Many women even wear these big hats on the beach with their bathing suits. Make-up is tending away from exotic dark powders and flaming lips; a sort of pale prettiness is obtained by light orange rouge and light red lipstick, with powder of normal flesh tint and a touch of soft gray green on the eyelids. Dark red toe and fingernails have been given place to rosy ones.

FOR THAT RAINY DAY

(Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild)

Beige waterproof suede cloth is featured for a popular style in raincoats, the drop shoulder line and double-breasted buttoning which are so strongly favored this year being combined.

Labor.

Toil swings the axe, and forests bow;
The seeds break out in radiant bloom,
Rich harvests smile behind the plow,
And cities cluster around the loom.
Where [illegible] domes and tapering spires
Adorn the vale and crown the hill,
Stout Labor lights its beacon fires,
And plumes with smoke the forge and mill.

The telephone company warns that banging the receiver down may cause trouble. Especially when the man who does it is talking to his wife.

Patient—You don't think I'm going to let you tinker with my teeth in the dark, do you?

Waitress—Yes, sir. Do you prefer those made out of pork or the ones made from hash?

Modernistic Observatory Dome

FIRST photograph of the architect's drawing of the proposed new telescope dome to be erected soon at the naval observatory in Washington. Built in modernistic style, the dome will be made of welded steel and will be 30 feet in diameter, with an inner shell for ventilation and cooling. It will be operated by machinery and will house a new photographing telescope now under construction by Prof. George W. Ritchey.

A new rope, made of chrome-nickel stainless steel, operates safely in temperatures up to 1,650 degrees, and is said to be fully resistant to corrosion from acids, alkalis and fumes.

Ten Days In Jail.

William Burns, 49, of Yonkers, was today committed to the Ulster county jail for ten days, having been arraigned before Justice S. G. Carpenter on a charge of public intoxication.

HOW MUCH

Dave Harum said, "When you get hold of ten dollars get it into you or onto you as soon as you can, for there ain't no pocket in a shroud and you're a long time dead."

If you had nothing but money you would be poor indeed. It is the things for which you can exchange the money you earn that set the standards of your living comforts and conveniences.

You know this. But do you know that it is you who largely determines the value of your dollars?

Many things contribute to the distance a dollar will go, but the greatest agent in "value received" is Advertising.

The advertisements in this paper tell you about the best grades of merchandise. They tell you where they can be had and for how much.

They tell you of the new things that manufacturers are producing to make your dollars of real worth to you in greater comforts, better living, more enjoyment.

Read the advertisements. Take time to save time. Take trouble to save trouble. Read to save walking. Search the ads to save searching the stores. And to make the dollar go farther!

JOB-SPREADING

Everyone wishes success to President Hoover's job-spreading committee, which is setting out to find work for some of the 10,000,000 involuntarily "idle". It should not be lost sight of, however, that job-spreading is merely a stop-gap and does not solve the fundamental employment problem. Temporarily, at least, those seeking to make what jobs there are employ more workers are abandoning the idea that every new labor-saving machine and every improved manufacturing or agricultural process creates more new jobs than it destroys old ones. Technological unemployment — the unemployment of men and women thrown out of familiar jobs by machines—has capitalism stumped for the time being.

The job-spreading movement should mean that some workers who have been eating their hearts out for lack of remunerative work will now have something to do for which they will be paid. If, however, the amount of work and amount of total remuneration remain the same, it will mean that some of the already employed must work a little less time and receive a little less pay in order to share with their fellows. That affords opportunity for a fine spirit of unselfishness and bolsters self-respect, but it will not go far toward increasing that consumption which is so essential to an age of mass-production. That problem is still to be solved.

THE FARMERS' HOLIDAY

Prolonged agricultural depression has led at last to violence in certain sections of the Middle West, but even the most enthusiastic of those active in the revolt can hardly anticipate real success. The demonstration 'round about Sioux City and Council Bluffs is evidence of the acuteness of the economic distress in some of the most fertile districts in the country. At the same time it indicates a misguided and despairing faith in force which is no less to be regretted.

The strikers' demand for an embargo on agricultural products "until the domestic price of the respective products equals the domestic cost of production" is one which the world has heard for centuries in almost every land. There is no record in all the past to show that such a movement has ever been truly successful. The best the Iowa farmers can hope for is a little temporary tribute, extorted by local shortage, and such gain as this can never justify its cost in disregard of law. The only possible advantage can come from an awakening of public interest in the farmers' plight, and in this country resort to violence rarely serves to win public sympathy.

FEDERAL TAX SLUMP.

Uncle Sam's collections have been bad, too. The need of new taxes has been strikingly shown in the report for tax revenue for the last fiscal year, ending June 30. There was a decline of $870,500,000 from the previous year. The total tax collections were only $1,557,729,000, less than one-third of the government expenditures. Obviously it was high time to bring the government budget into harmony with facts, instead of continuing to borrow in order to pay current expenses. Even the heavy new taxes imposed, as it appears now, will not suffice to balance the budget the present fiscal year, because collections are considerably below the estimates made when they were adopted.

It does not follow that Congress, when it meets next winter, must proceed at once to vote still more and heavier taxes. The goose that lays the golden eggs for Uncle Sam must have a chance to eat. Before there can be more taxes, there must be more income. The obvious way for the government to get out of the red, instead of getting in deeper yet, is the way that Congress refused to take last winter. It is the reduction of government expenses by cutting out unnecessary bureaus and services, reducing the army of officeholders, running the governmental machinery more thriftily, living more in accord with the spirit of the times that are now trying men's souls in private life. The decline in federal revenue for last year is only a little more than the amount which the United States Chamber of Commerce has said the government could save by going on a businesslike basis.

Here is something worth passing along, as one motorist to another. A young fellow arraigned in the New York traffic court for violating a parking ordinance, when questioned by the judge, replied humbly: "The policeman did his duty well. I have nothing to say." Thereupon His Honor had something to say, and said it well. "You are one of the few men," he observed, "who have come in here admitting the police are right in enforcing traffic laws. Sentence is suspended." Overdone, no doubt, such honesty would become a racket. But from present indications, there is little danger of forthright honesty and candor being overworked by erring automobilists caught in the act. Why not try it next time you get a summons? It ought to be good for at least one sentence-suspension.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

You hear about some friend whose blood pressure is very high, he is forced to go to bed for a time, then take things "easy" for a few weeks, and finally he is out and about playing golf, and apparently in the best of health.

You hear of another friend or acquaintance whose blood pressure is high at about the same point as the other, but he is forced to rest a good part of the day, is never allowed any exercise as his doctor informs him that exercise may cause a "stroke".

Why is it that the one individual with very high blood pressure gets back to normal life and the other does not?

Because with the first one the high blood pressure is due to some passing ailment and the blood pressure increases in order to fight or protect the body. If the blood pressure did not increase when the blood was needed at every part, the ailment might seriously affect the body. So when the ailment passed over, the infected teeth or other infection was removed from the system, the blood pressure came back to normal.

As a matter of fact the elastic tissue in the blood vessels was not really damaged to such an extent that it could not get back to normal. These vessels still remained soft and pliable.

In the other case however the elastic tissue in the walls of the blood vessels was so badly damaged that it could not stretch properly when blood was pumped into the blood vessels by the heart. Nature in an effort to prevent the vessels from bursting put a lime-like deposit in place of the elastic tissue. This of course means that the blood when it is pumped would have to increase its pressure against this vessel which instead of being soft and elastic feels like a "clay pipe stem".

Now when the blood vessels get hard in this manner, the blood pressure will be high and will stay high if the blood is to reach all parts of the body.

This explains then why one patient with high blood pressure gets back to health and strength again, and the other must always live a careful life if he is to prevent a stroke or other serious ailment.

As long as the heart can keep strong everything is fairly safe. If the patient begins to get out of breath easily, the heart becomes rapid, or he feels an unusual "tightness" in the chest from slight exertion, complete rest is necessary at once.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Across the luxurious restaurant of the Hotel Luna Nan Weare sees Robert Leonard, the man who believes [illegible] tried to murder her husband, Jervis Weare. With him is Rosamund Carew, Jervis' former fiancée, whose recent attempt to secure his fortune for herself has failed. Rosamund sweeps dramatically up to Jervis' table.

Chapter 13

PASSIONS CURBED

"I HAVEN'T congratulated you," said Rosamund.

"No," said Jervis pleasantly. Then, "I hope you will."

"When you have introduced me to your wife." She turned her eyes on Nan. They were just like the sapphire of her ring—as darkly blue, as cold beneath the brilliance and the colour. She smiled with her lips, but the smile rose no higher.

Nan heard Jervis say her name. It was the first time since he had said, "I, Jervis, take thee, Nan." He said,

"Nan, let me introduce my cousin, Rosamund Carew." She was aware of his smile. "You have heard of her."

"And I have never heard of you," said Rosamund very sweetly. "That doesn't seem fair—does it?"

Jervis watched them with interest. To Rosamund's perfect social technique Nan had only youth and inexperience to offer; yet, to his surprise, she suffered less than he could have supposed possible from the contact. She had the air of a well-bred child a little unsure of what it must do next. But the breeding was there; it kept her head up and her eyes steady and clear. Jervis wondered how old Page's typist came by it.

He thrust F.F. into the breach.

"You've heard enough of Ferdinand Francis."

"Are you F.F.?" said Rosamund. Her voice, like all her movements, had a slow grace. It was rather a deep voice.

"I am," said Ferdinand—"and I can't begin to say how glad I am to meet you."

Rosamund smiled upon him and introduced Robert Leonard—to him first, and then to Nan.

F.F. shook hands with enthusiasm. Nan acknowledged the privilege of Mr. Leonard's acquaintance with the slightest, gravest inclination of the head. No one could have told how terribly her heart was beating. To be so close to the man who had tried to kill Jervis, not once but twice!

He had a jutting brow with sparse fair eyebrows; the eyes were deeply and rather closely set, the nose insignificant, the chin jutting again and oddly cleft; a small colourless mustache clipped away from the corners of the mouth showed thin, pale lips; his hair was smooth and mouse-coloured.

Rosamund turned from F. F. and spoke.

"Are you in town for long? How can you tear yourself from Weare in this weather?"

"I've been seeing my sister married," said Nan. "She sailed for Australia today."

"Then you'll be going back tomorrow, I suppose."

Jervis said, "Yes, tomorrow." He added, quite lightly and smoothly, "So I'm afraid we shan't meet again."

Rosamund Carew smiled and passed on down the room, spoke for a moment to Janet Tatterley, smiled at Nessie Carter, touched Enid Mellitor, on the shoulder, and after a word or two passed on and out of sight behind a golden pillar.

"Well!" said Mr. Francis. He put a wealth of expression into the word; his eyes darted questions. Like King David, he held his tongue, but it was pain and grief to him.

Jervis looked at him rather maliciously.

"I don't think we'll hurry," he said. "I think we'll dance. If F.F. makes a clean breast of all his villainies, he shall dance with Rosamund—and I'm sure you'd love a turn with Leonard."

Nan's face went blank; her color was gone.

She said, "Oh no—I'd rather not." Then, with a pathetic earnestness, "Oh, please don't make me."

"Then you'll have to put up with me—and I'm nothing like the performer that he is."

Ferdinand was an accomplished dancer; the new Mrs. Jervis Weare was an exquisite one. Jervis experienced an elusive feeling of being for once at the top of a form to which he had never previously aspired. He looked down at Nan's brown head. He could just see one of her ears. It was little and delicately shaped; the lobe showed pink between short waves of hair.

"I suppose you know how beautifully you dance. I wouldn't have dared ask you if I had known."

She looked up for a moment—one of those direct looks of hers.

"I was a dancing partner at Solano's for six months before I went to Mr. Page," she said.

"Did you like it?"

She could hear the frown in his voice.

"No." It was a very sober monosyllable to cover a good deal of shrinking distaste. After a very little pause she added, "I did like the dancing."

"Why did you do it?"

"I couldn't get anything else to do."

"Haven't you any people?"

"Only Cynthia—really."

He was down on that like a flash.

"Who isn't real?"

"An aunt. I couldn't possibly ask her for anything."

"Why?"

She looked up again.

"She's that sort. She finished our education."

"And then?"

"She washed her hands of us. She washed them very thoroughly."

There were seats between the half pillars on two sides of the ballroom. They moved to the nearest and sat down. Jervis said, as if with an effort,

"I've been thinking things over. Would you object to coming down to Weare for a bit?"

"Why?"

Jervis' face changed suddenly. With the look of a teasing schoolboy he said,

"You could see I didn't get run over again." Jervis locked up. [illegible] pricked to a sudden wonder. He wanted her to come — she must come.

"Well?" he said.

"I'll come," said Nan, and relaxed with a sigh.

(Copyright, 1932, Lippincott)

Another of Rosamund Carew's schemes comes to nothing in tomorrow's installment.

Jervis thrust F.F. into the breach.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by John Hix

The story of lumbermen shaving with their axes has come to be regarded in recent years as a myth, like many tales of the lumber camp. It remained for Paul Chriss, a former logger, to uphold the truth of the primitive shave by demonstrating on a subject with a three-day beard.

Mr. Chriss stropped his ax on his boots, and strange as it seems, his "customer" said it was the best shave he ever had. He may have noted that Chriss still held the ax.

Within the memory of man there is only one case known of an elephant having long hair. She is Betsy, a trained elephant in a wild animal farm in Hudson, N. H. Like her prehistoric ancestors—the long-haired mastodons that roamed North America and Europe—she has a coat of long hair. The fact that prehistoric, now extinct, elephants had long hair has long been recognized by scientists, but before Betsy no similar case was ever recorded. Betsy's case is regarded by scientists as typical of one of nature's pranks—a throwback of perhaps hundreds of thousands of years.

You never drank any pure water. Pure water has never been obtained by science and, so far as is known, pure water never existed. Approximate purity can be reached in the laboratory, but absolute purity is beyond the reach of man.

"Of Two Evils"

The mock doctor in Moliere's farce, having cured a man's daughter supposed to be dumb, she exercises her tongue so fluently that her father offers him a second fee to take from her the power of speech again. "Impossible!" replied the doctor, "I cannot do that; but if you please I could undertake to make you deaf!"

Beware of the Weather

As a man should always be upon his guard against the vices to which he is most exposed so we should take a more ordinary care not to lie at the mercy of the weather in our moral conduct.—Joseph Addison, the Spectator.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The Crooner." Depicting how the great radio crooner gets that way. Here is a timely talkie, filled with laughs and action, the story of a radio songster and his successes and woes. David Manners is effective in the role of the crooner, and Ann Dvorak is appealing as ever as the girl in the story. A show that is good for an evening of enjoyment.

Orpheum: "Texas Bad Man" and "Young Bride." Tom Mix, most popular of the western stars, is good in this story of a man who turns desperado in order to trap a gang of crooks. Tony, his horse, is with him as usual. "Young Bride" offers Helen Twelvetrees along with Eric Linden and Arlene Judge in a story of matrimony.

Broadway: "Red Headed Woman". A funny play with numerous laughs and risque scenes is this unusual story of a red headed gold digger who betters herself at the expense of rich husbands who cannot resist her charms. Born on the wrong side of the social ladder, she employs every feminine trick to make her boss leave his wife and marry her. From then on, she changes from one man to another in her climb up the social laddr. The story isn't so much, but the acting and method of handling the situations make this show enjoyable entertainment. Jean Harlow is especially effective in the title role, and Chester Morris, Una Merkel, Lewis Stone and Leila Hyams give able support. Anybody who likes fast, racy entertainment will enjoy this.

Ritz: "Shopworn." Barbara Stanwyck whose screen vehicles have been one complete round of successes, scores again in this story of a poor girl in love with a rich boy. The wealthy parents object, and the girl enters the theatre and becomes a great stage star. All ends well, however, after Miss Stanwyck proves herself to be an actress of unusual charm and ability. Regis Toomey is also in the cast.

Pretty Name for Coral

The word coral is derived from Greek words, which mean "daughters of the sea." The little creatures that form coral were called zoophytes, or natural plants, by the old naturalists, for then the boundary line that divides the animal kingdom from the plants was not clearly defined. But "daughters of the sea" is a suitable term.

From the Greek

The word "kaleidoscope" is compounded of three Greek words, meaning beautiful form and a watcher, which is to say, an instrument for viewing beautiful forms. The suffix scope is familiar in such words as telescope, microscope, stereoscope, etc.

DEPRESSION FAILS TO STOP CON MEN

Swindlers Find Victims in Parisian Cafes.

Paris.—The success with which two unimaginable "confidence men" swindled a visiting Australian millionaire in a popular boulevard cafe recently indicates that the world depression is not universal.

Despite repeated exposures of these "con men" in this most well known of Parisian sidewalk cafes, the victims still seem to come from somewhere and still provide easy money for plausible crooks, who not only go by unpunished, but who return at a later date with a different passport, a different name, and different mustache, perpetuating the same old gag and disappearing before their victim has time to get to the police station.

Only recently a trusting Australian gentleman dropped upwards of 4,000,000 francs on the flimsiest of flim-flam games. The two police thugs who trimmed the amiable visitor were old offenders, and their appearance was signalized in Paris. But police action came only when the venerable gentleman had parted with his millions.

Use Simple System.

In this particular ca\ the simplest of systems are employed. Many victims probably get wise and fail to collaborate, but when a brother falls these thugs make it well worth the time lost on their bad guesses. The prevalent gag is for one of the swindlers to take a chair on the terrace of a popular cafe where all the world goes and wait until some particular bird of prey arrives.

The victim selected is either chosen by prearranged tactics on the part of the gang, or a victim is chosen at random because of his apparent or supposed possession of ready wealth. The "con man," so to speak, having an engaging personality, soon makes the acquaintance of the victim and, if the victim is at all susceptible, the worldly arts of a gentleman who has lived both in and out of jails, under every circumstance on all continents, soon makes its insidious effect, and two firm friendships are formed. Drinks follow, confidences about family; home towns, women, men and events.

The crook is apparently wealthy, just a careless fellow whose people are rich, or whose uncle is president of a big corporation, and whose acquaintance is vast among men of circumstance. To make money bores him, because he has plenty.

Flattering Overt.

By devious means the crook establishes the approximate wealth of his victim. And, by some singular coincidence, a venerable gentleman happens by the cafe. He speaks to the crook as though he might be the son of his older business partner. The first crook invites his respected friend to join them in a drink. He explains overtly that the old gentleman is one of America's or England's greatest bankers, the silent partner of ship lines, oil concessions, gold mines and scandalously rich, who is retired but who goes to the stock exchange as a matter of long habit.

The two crooks talk of a little deal. Perhaps they leave their new friend out of this little deal. The next day they meet again, and the elderly gentleman turns over a few thousand francs with a bored air as the winnings of their little deal. They offer to let their victim in on one of these little deals, and they even bet jocularly among themselves who will get trimmed on the next stock deal. This goes on until the friend is convinced that he is in good company. Then comes the real deal. The victim lays out cash, a specially big prize on a new stock. The next day the two friends cross the frontier and the innocent victim calls shame-facedly on the police.

Rise of Crime in Great Britain Worrying "Yard"

London.—Recent outbursts of crime and banditry in England have caused alarm in many quarters.

Both Scotland Yard and the police forces, under control of the home office, have come in for sharp criticism. New crime methods, it is claimed, have outwitted every system devised by the police; while the bandits are becoming more daring, the authorities are charged with becoming more routine.

With the country's long standing reputation for efficient police administration seriously challenged, no less an authority on crime conditions than Maj. Gen. Sir Wyndham Child, chief of the criminal investigation department at Scotland Yard from 1921 to 1928, has lately admitted that "criminals of a certain type have at the moment got the better of us, and there will have to be a lot of deep thinking before we regain supremacy once more."

Love for Sea Is Cured by Mishap to Schooner

Fall River, Mass.—A local newspaper carried an item recently recalling the ill-fated voyage of the schooner Hiram Smith, which left here in December, 1888, and lost her captain and two men in a storm off Cape May, N. J.

Herbert L. Hart of Buffalo, N. Y., whose father, David, was one of the survivors of the crew, noted the item. He informed the newspaper that his father never went to sea again and lived to be ninety-six.

Water in the Sahara

In almost the entire region of the Sahara desert there are no permanent water courses, but from time to time temporary and even temperature streams are developed by heavy rainfalls, which soon dry up or are absorbed by the desert sands.

How Round Is The Earth? Science To Find Out With 7,000-Mile Surveyed Line

By F. B. COLTON
(Associated Press Science Writer)

Washington (AP)—A surveyed line 7,000 miles long that whips halfway around the earth like the seam on a basketball soon will be put to use to answer the question "Just how round is the earth?"

Columbus, though generally credited with proving that the world is round, did not discover just how round it is. Scientists ever since have been trying to find out the exact shape.

They will come nearer to finding out when the line, surveyed all the way from the southern tip of Africa to the northern tip of Norway, is finished. The earth is flattened slightly at both poles. The line will be used in calculating how the earth differs in shape from a perfect sphere on account of the flattening.

To Aid In Map Making.

The line, measured with an accuracy of one part in 300,000 despite its great length, will be the world's longest arc of triangulation. These arcs show how the earth curves over any given distance, a factor that must be taken into account in laying out national boundaries, drawing maps and charts for mariners, and locating the boundaries of property. Shape of the earth is used in calculating lengths of degrees of latitude and longitude.

The size and shape of the earth, learned by triangulation, also are used in calculating the exact distance of the moon for use by astronomers.

The Norway-Africa line has been surveyed piecemeal in various countries, and the parts gradually connected.

Finishing Last Gap.

British surveyors now are filling a gap along the shore of Lake Tanganyika, Africa. When completed the line will extend unbroken from the shore of the Arctic ocean in Norway south through Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, East Prussia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Jugoslavia Greece, across the Mediterranean sea by way of the Island of Crete, Egypt, Belgian Congo, Rhodesia and into the Union of South Africa where it will touch the south Atlantic at Port Elizabeth.

Work of surveyors in all these countries who have helped survey the line will be co-ordinated by the International Geodetic and Geophysical Union. Work on parts of the line was begun as early as 1833, and the survey in Africa has been going on 50 years.

CAMP CRAWFORD WILL SOON CLOSE FOR SEASON

Brown Station, Sept. 5—Everyone is feeling a bit sad as the time for closing Camp Crawford draws nearer, but everyone is determined to enjoy every detail until the last minute.

On Thursday evening of last week Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Gross and son, Robert, were guests at a supper party on the rocks at the head of the Stillwater lake. Frankfurters furnished the substantial part of the meal, which was well enjoyed by all. Supper was followed by music, singing and a general good time.

Saturday, Miss Helen Spielman of New York city and Miss Irene Overthrow of Norwalk, Conn., regretfully left camp and returned to their homes, carrying with them the memories of a wonderful vacation, and hoping to come back next year.

On Thursday, Mrs. Samuel Crawford, Miss Marion Crawford, Mrs. Fannie Una, Mrs. Chester Bonstell and Jerry Von Der Heide all of Hoboken, N. J., spent the day here.

Albert Rixmann of Hoboken, N. J., visited camp on Sunday and when he returned home, all were sorry to see him go. Mrs. Rixmann and two children, Setzu Dagma and William, returned with him. Mrs. Rixmann made a marvelous record in swimming, as she could not swim a stroke when she came two weeks ago, and now she can swim at least 50 yards without blinking an eyelash or without swallowing the lake. All this reflects much credit on the efficient swimming instructor, Miss Marion Weidner.

Last Friday morning, Miss Helen Crawford, Miss Thelma Burdick, Miss Irene Overthrow and Miss Helen Spielman took an airplane ride at the Kingston airport. They were all very much thrilled by this modern mode of travel.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, Sept. 5.—Business was suspended in Wall street today in observance of Labor Day. All security and commodity exchanges will resume tomorrow.

The advance in commodity prices has been uneven and Wall street has been disposed to feel disappointed over the small proportions of the recovery in copper. Reaching 5 cents a pound last week, however, the red metal has pulled itself well above its record low, and it is hoped that any substantial upturn in business will stimulate demand, and doubtless lead to further recovery in the price.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The American Legion is doing a fine thing for the youngsters of the United States and for baseball in conducting this year for the sixth time its national junior baseball tournament.

Five hundred thousand youngsters engaged in Legion games this year leading to the finals at Manchester, N. H., August 30-31 and September 1 and it is not unreasonable to assume that several times that many watched the games.

A national program was first undertaken in 1925 with Yonkers, N. Y., winning the championship. There was no organized national competition in 1927, but it was resumed the next year and has been continued since. A team representing Oakland, Cal., won in 1925, Buffalo in 1929, Baltimore in 1926 and South Chicago last year.

With civic recreational programs tending more toward golf and less toward sandlots baseball, the Legion tournament has done much to keep baseball the favorite game of young America.

Minors Need Knife.

Branch Rickey, astute manager of the St. Louis Cardinals chain store system of baseball, who should know, says that the failure of several minor leagues this year was not due to loss of interest by the fans but to failure of the management to take proper account of changed economic conditions.

"Not long ago I attended a banquet at Elmira, N. Y., where the Cardinals have a club," Rickey said. "The hall was filled with citizens from every walk of life. The presence of these men was a tribute to professional baseball, since it was a baseball gathering and nothing else.

"There is no lack of interest in baseball. It has been affected by an economic depression but it is no different from any other business. The minors must meet the changing condition with a more economic program. They must reorganize on a strictly business basis, taking care that the expenditures are no greater than the income."

Economies, of course, must be made in players' salaries, Rickey said, but he pointed out that there were many other ways in which the minors can and have not trimmed their sails. Many minor league clubs, he said, annually purchase much more equipment than they have any use for and spend money foolishly in other ways.

Semi-Pros Flourish.

The flourishing condition of semi-pro baseball in Brooklyn proves that the game has lost none of its fascination for the public if a good spectacle is offered and the price is right.

On a recent evening a crowd estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000 persons jammed Dexter Park, in east Brooklyn, to see a fast semi-pro game and I am told such crowds are not uncommon. Admission is 30 and 55 cents, tax included. Games are played sometimes as often as three or four times a week.

With the breakup of the Eastern League several young players with no major league or other minor league affiliations tied up with semi-pro teams through the east, several of them joining Brooklyn teams, and the grade of play is fully as high as that of an organized minor of "d" classification. Several of the players are making as much playing only three or four times a week now as they were working seven days a week on a salary inside the league.

Scores at Ulster Gun Club Shoot

The ten members of the home club and three visiting members of the Saugerties Gun Club who were at the Ulster County Gun Club traps Saturday had a very successful shoot.

The light was perfect and scores were above the average. While no perfect scores were made, 24 out of 25 was recorded eight times during the afternoon. Fowler of the Saugerties club accounted for two of them. Mrs. King is still shooting 20 or better.

Arrangements are being completed to hold a series of shoots between Saugerties, Kingston and Rosendale, shooting weekly at each club in rotation.

CONNELLY A. C. BEATS MT. TREMPER NINE

The Connelly A. C. baseball nine administered a very decisive trimming to the Mt. Tremper team Sunday at the Mt. Tremper diamond. Loose playing in the first inning gave the visitors a five run lead and from time to time they increased their lead while Mt. Tremper annexed goose-eggs. "Eddie" Scherer, on the firing line for the Connelly aggregation, had the Mt. Tremper boys mystified and they gathered only a few scattered hits. Harold Clayton on the receiving end for the visitors played a steady game backing up Scherer in several excellent plays. In the ninth Mt. Tremper was able to push one man across the plate for the only run in the game. The final score was 15 to 1. This was the second defeat in succession for Mt. Tremper. On Saturday afternoon George Byron's Mountaineers lost their game to a local camp team.

Taiclets And K of C Meet Tuesday Evening

The City Baseball League will resume operations at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening after being idle over the holiday. The Taiclet Boxmen and the Knights of Columbus will be the opposing teams. Nick Huber or Phil Peters can be called on to do the pitching for the Boxmen with Tomaseski behind the plate. Art Wood and Herbie Clarke probably will form the Caseys' battery.

First Half Playoff On Thursday Evening

Instead of the Knights of Columbus and the Forst Butchers playing their regular schedule game on Thursday evening they will meet at the Athletic Field to decide a winner of the first half of the City League. The two teams ended in a deadlock with seven wins and three losses and in order to decide a winner to play the winners of the second half a playoff is necessary. The game is scheduled for 5:30.

Dutra Wins Title Making New Record

St. Paul, Sept. 5 (AP)—Olin Dutra sat on the throne of American professional golf today as a real champion.

His march to the most important title he ever has held ended yesterday over wind tossed Keller course as he crushed Frank Walsh of Chicago, 4 and 3, in the championship final with a record probably never before equalled in golf.

Not even Gene Sarazen or Bobby Jones could boast of the parchasing record the Santa Monica, Cal., player has recorded during the past month. His march to victory in the Metropolitan and North Shore Chicago opens and the National professional has been so brilliant that he has played 304 holes with the amazing tally of 31 shots under par.

Walsh fought a great battle against Dutra yesterday but just couldn't match golf that clipped par by four shots. He battled him to a tie at the end of 18 holes with a medal card of 71 on the par 72 course and its tricky greens but fell in the afternoon as Dutra shot a 33, three under par, on the front nine and played perfect golf the rest of the way.

Although the 1932 championship was robbed of many of its greatest gallery favorites in sweeping upsets and record breaking matches—one of them a 42 hole thriller between Walter Hagen of Detroit and John Golden of Noroton, Conn.—St. Paul boosters said it was successful enough to pay off the guarantors between 80 and 95 per cent and probably assured the continuance of the $10,000 St. Paul open, which was supplanted by the P. G. A. show.

Cadets Hold Light Football Drill As Practice Is Begun

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Because of the hot weather little progress was made last week by Major Ralph I. Sasse, head coach, toward the development of the 1932 Army football team. While enthusiasm among the players is high, the coaches and trainers have decided to await cooler weather before starting strenuous work. This may tend to retard the selection of the players of the three teams which go to make up the cadet squad as without the test of live tackling and full speed scrimmage the calibre of the new men is an unknown quantity.

Study New Rules.

Practice to date has consisted of calisthenics and quickening exercises given personally by Major Sasse and light group work. Considerable time has been devoted to the new rules and their interpretation. Each coach has conducted a quiz to determine the familiarity of his men with the 1932 code.

With the acquisition of Lt. "Bill" Wood to the coaching staff, Army's kicking this year is expected to improve materially. As a cadet, Wood was a star punter. Each afternoon he works with Fields, Brown, Frentzel, Sebastian and Elliott. Frentzel and Sebastian were of the squad most of last year while the others all gained considerable experience.

Armstrong Shines.

The tackle positions which have caused the coaches considerable concern appear to be partially solved through the excellent physical condition of "Babe" Armstrong. Standing over 6 feet one inch and weighing 220 pounds, Armstrong will be a tower of strength on the right side of the line. In addition to his bulk and strength Armstrong is a sprinter and one of the fastest men on the squad. Because of illness, he did not play to any extent last season.

RIP VAN WINKLE CLUB ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

As the result of an election held today by the Rip Van Winkle Club of Shandaken, Dr. J. Herbert Low of New York holds the office of president formerly occupied by Frank Curtis Schmitz who is to sail shortly for a business trip to southern Europe.

In addition to electing the new president, three directors were chosen. They are Charles N. Wheaton, Professor F. O. X. McLoughlin and Van Dyck MacBride.

Tapping Major League Bases

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer.

After the Labor Day double header with Cincinnati the Chicago Cubs move to the Atlantic seaboard for five games with Boston, four with New York, and three each with Brooklyn and the Phillies. If the high stepping outfit can maintain most of its present seven game lead through this final road trip then the pennant can be awarded without further ado.

The Cubs have just completed a remarkable home stay in which they won 16 games and lost only two, definitely shattered the Brokolyn Dodgers' pennant hopes and left Pittsburgh's Pirates so far behind that only a complete collapse in the Cub machine can give the Pirates another chance. Since August 24, the Pirates have won eight successive games and yet have gained not one inch on the Cubs.

During the same stretch the Cubs have won nine and lost one.

To Lonnie Warneke, great rookie right hander, fell the honor of closing the Cubs' home stay yesterday and he did it impressively, holding the St. Louis Cardinals to three singles and winning 3-0, his 20th triumph of the season. Sylvester Johnson was the victim of Frankie Frisch's error in the fourth when the Cubs scored three unearned runs.

The Pirates kept step, beating Cincinnati 5-2 with the aid of a four run rally in the third, during which Pie Traynor found a spot for a triple. Brooklyn remained two games behind the Pirates by beating the New York Giants, 3-2. Bob Holland's double with the bases full and two out gave the Boston Braves two runs and a 6-5 victory over the Phillies.

In the American League, the New York Yankees bowled over the hapless Boston Red Sox, 8-2, and now need only 10 more victories in their 21 remaining games to clinch the flag. Danny MacFayden steadied after a shaky start, gave up only five hits and blanked the Red Sox after the third frame.

Washington tripped the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6, and chopped a full game off the A's lead in the battle for second place. Bill McAfee, who relieved Al Thomas after the third inning, held the A's to three runs the rest of the way and hung up his fifth successive victory without a defeat.

The Cleveland Indians hammered out 16 hits to whip Detroit 11-3, in the first game of a double header. The second game was halted by rain in the fourth with the score tied at 3-3. St. Louis beat the Chicago White Sox, 7-5, in the first game but dropped a 5-1 decision in the nightcap.

Army Coach Likes Grid Rule Changes

By Edward J. Neil.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP)—When you have shadows such as Pittsburgh, Yale, Harvard, Notre Dame and Navy passing constantly before your eyes, a little thing like changed football rules isn't likely to impress you deeply.

"The new rules? Oh, yes. . . . that's right," murmurs Major Ralph I. Sasse as he tries to watch a hundred different cadets at once churning up the sod of a practice field across from Army's parade ground. "The new football rules . . . well, I like them. Everybody should like them. But would they like Pittsburgh, Yale, Harvard, Notre Dame and Navy in a row?"

Same major in the blistering tank corps in the fighting overseas, pilot of Army's football tank since the departure of Biff Jones, is a brilliant student of football and when the shadow of a mighty impending schedule passes, he brightens considerably over the new rules.

Afford Protection.

"The rule changes," he says, "are designed chiefly to protect younsters in high schools and prep schools and if you keep that in mind considering them, you'll see that they'll change very little the aspect of the big league college games.

"Stopping the play automatically when a ball carrier's hand touches the ground will save a lot of boys from injuries caused by piling up. College football players should know now to keep their feet. If they lose their balance, chances are they've going no farther anyway against real opposition.

"I like the change allowing frequent substitutions. It gives the little team a chance to rest its stars against the big fellows and make a better showing. It takes some of the rigidity from the game, adds to the sport of it."

Will Miss Tackles.

Then the shadow of Pittsburgh, Yale, Harvard, Notre Dame and Navy comes down again and the major tightens up. He faces that schedule without Ray Stecker, a grand luck pass grabbing, but with a wealth of ball carrying material. He has veteran ends, guards and tackles but he'll miss Biff Jones and Ed Stecker, graduated backfield. Still there is lots of material on the plains. His squad this year is at least as good as the team that lost Notre Dame and Navy, tied Yale and lost to Harvard and Pittsburgh in 1931.

Collegiates Trim Wilbur Feds, 17-3

At the Athletic Field Saturday afternoon the Collegiates defeated the Wilbur Feds 17-3, touching "Big Joe" Mahar and Hank Cragan, pitchers, for 12 hits, three aplece being made by Clarke and Thomas. Tiano, playing first for the winners, hit twice, one smash turning into a home run.

J. Burgevin was on the mound for the Collegiates and allowed the Feds only six hits.

Local Men Advance In Tri-County Meet

As play closed Saturday night in the annual Tri-County Tennis Tourney at Albany, the original field of 55 entries had been cut down to 22. Only two of the Kingston men met defeat. Randall Rose, Kingston champion, lost to Bull of Schenectady, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the first round. This is the first time Rose has been defeated in the first round since his first entry in 1924.

Michael Zanelli, from Staten Island, Westbrook Stelle's doubles partner, won from Bulloch of Schenectady by default in the first round but was put out in the second round by Alec Perle, third ranking player of Albany, in the second round, 6-4, 6-3.

Ed Strong of Kingston defeated S. Louistein of Albany in the first round by default. He meets Wally Puffer of Troy in the second round.

Jesse Baker of Kingston defeated Rothemich of Schenectady by default in the first round. He will meet Ed Minsch in the second round.

Bob Herzog of Kingston defeated Crary of Albany in the first round, 6-4, 6-1. The Kingston man won easily. His next opponent will be Taylor of Schenectady.

Westbrook Stelle of Staten Island, formerly of Kingston, advanced to the second round when DeGraef of Albany defaulted and entered the third round by defeating Jack Barnes, one of Albany's first ten, 6-0, 6-4. Stelle won the first seven games, lost four and then won five more. He meets Hartig, runner-up for the Schenectady county title, for the right to enter the quarter finals.

The doubles found three Kingston teams in the same quarter. All of them drew byes in the first round. In the second round Rose and Herzog, Kingston champions, defeated Stelle and Zarrilli, 5-7, 6-2, 6-0. The Staten Islanders played well in the first set but slowly went to pieces in the second set and the third set was a rout.

Baker and Tonchs, the latter from Schenectady, played ragged tennis to defeat the Minsch brothers, 6-4, 7-9, 6-2. They will meet Rose and Herzog in the quarter final round.

Strong, playing with Alexander of Schenectady, fell afoul of Perle and Sutherland, last year's tri-county champs, and lost 6-4, 6-2.

It is expected that both tourneys will reach semi-final rounds by the time the play closes today. Rose, Herzog and Stelle were included in the seeded players.

Showers prevented the playing of the expected inter-city match on Sunday. It will be played October 8, at Albany.

Blue Sox Lose to Ravena Orioles, 4-5

After holding their own against the Orioles at Ravena for nine innings Sunday afternoon the Blue Sox lost by the close margin of 4-5 when a double by Datri scored Schafer in the tenth and extra frame, giving the decision to the home team.

Phil "Waco" Peters was on the mound for the Sox and was touched for 10 hits by the Birdmen. Smith and Clifford did the twirling for the opposing side and permitted eight bingles.

BOXING BOUTS SLATED FOR THE CURRENT WEEK.

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—If it weren't for Christopher (Bat) Battalino, Kid Chocolate and Lou Brouillard, the current week's program could be ignored altogether. As it is, it doesn't amount to much.

Battalino, former featherweight champion, meets Eddie Holmes in a ten round welterweight bout at Providence tonight. Chocolate, Cuban negro holder of the junior lightweight title, faces Steve Smith of Bridgeport, Conn., a rival he has beaten several times, at Fenway Park, Boston, tomorrow night. Chocolate's crown will not be at stake.

Brouillard, who held the welterweight championship for a time, tackles Ad Zachow of Portland, in a 12-rounder at the Boston Garden Friday night.

Spencer's School Opens September 6

The fall sessions of Spencer's Business School will open on Tuesday, September 6, and registrations for the day and evening school may be made now.

Spencer's Business School, one of the most successful commercial and secretarial schools in the state, organized in 1889, is now nicely located in its new quarters in the Uptown Freeman building where it occupies the two upper floors. This new building was specially constructed for a business school. Lighting, an important thing in school work, has been given especial attention as light is furnished for the school by forty windows on four sides. For evening school the latest style of electric fixtures has been installed.

Demand for business and secretarial training has increased very materially in the past few years. This increase and the desire to provide modern quarters for pupils prompted Prof. Kelly, president of the school to seek new quarters. The building is admirably arranged for school purposes and has accommodations for 200 pupils.

Spencer's Business School was organized some 43 years ago, and for more than 30 years has been under the proprietorship of Prof. Kelly who first came here from Clinton Liberal Institute and Military Academy at Fort Plain. At present there are five instructors engaged in teaching the several commercial and secretarial studies at the school.

The present location is near the bus lines entering the city, making it convenient for out-of-town students. A very large number of registrations has been made for the September classes, both day and evening sessions. Young men and women who intend to start with the beginning classes are cordially invited to enter on Tuesday morning, September 6.

Open Battle For Polo Championship

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—With the elimination of Tommy Hitchcock's Sands Point four, the national open polo championship has developed into a wide open battle with not one of the four survivors a standout.

Sands Point had been a prime favorite to capture the title won last year by the Santa Paula four from Argentina but Hitchcock, Eric Pedley, G. H. (Pete) Bostwick and Lindsley Howard found themselves pitted against a better team, Eastcott, yesterday, and lost 6-5.

Except for the third period, when Sands Point rallied for three goals to tie the score, Hitchcock's team was outplayed. For Eastcott, Harold Talbott, Jr., the No. 1 player, was outstanding. He scored four goals, including the winning tally in the seventh chukker.

Eastcott now will meet Jock Whitney's Greentree four on Wednesday in one semi-final. The other, to be played tomorrow, will pit Capt. C. T. I. Roark's Aurora outfit against the Templeton four, featuring the Guest brothers. Aurora opened the tournament Saturday with a 11-3 victory over Laddie Sanford's Hurricanes.

MODEL T FORD HIT NEW PONTIAC SEDAN

Something went wrong with the hitherto reliable old Model T of Dennis Quilty, collector for the People's Store, as he was driving along Pearl street Saturday afternoon near the residence of Dr. K. H. LeFever. The Ford went out of control completely, swerved to the side of the road and smashed into Dr. LeFever's brand new Pontiac sedan, which was parked in front of his house, damaging the left front fender, breaking off the parking light and bending the bumper of the new car.

PLANE CRASH INJURIES FATAL TO STUNT FLIER

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (AP).—Al Wilson, Hollywood, Calif., stunt aviator, died today in a hospital of a fractured skull suffered last Saturday in an accident witnessed by thousands at the national air races.

He was performing with a 1910 "pusher" plane when it collided with an autogyro flown by John Miller of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Both planes fell from about 100 feet and were wrecked. Miller was not hurt.

N. Y. City's Political Picture Vari-Colored

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—New York city's political picture today was a vari-colored affair.

The New York Times said Samuel Seabury, whose charges against James J. Walker led to the latter's resignation last week as mayor, would be proposed as a fusion candidate for the office in the event Tammany Hall champions the ex-mayor in the next election.

Herald Tribune said John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, is "unreservedly for nominating Walker for mayor this fall."

This paper also declared the Republicans have held out "the olive branch" to Tammany "but the suggestion that if the Democrats would drop Walker and put up a man of "of the type of Frank L. Polk," undersecretary of the state in the Wilson administration, the Republican party might * * * interpose no organization opposition."

In still another quarter, the New York American criticized Walker for his attack on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt for alleged unfairness at the hearing on charges against the former mayor and warned it would not support Walker if his candidacy was "the prelude to a sustained attack" upon the Democratic presidential nominee.

This warning, contained in an editorial signed by William Randolph Hearst, publisher, declared that "the Hearst papers are sincere and devoted supporters of Governor Roosevelt." Hearst previously had urged Walker to resign.

Disclosing the proposal to run Mr. Seabury, the Times said a conference of Republicans leaders of the city will be held next week, probably Wednesday, to discuss the possibility of such a ticket.

Mr. Seabury, described by the paper as Independent Democrat and an arch-foe of Tammany, was enroute today to Europe for a vacation, but the Times said the Republican leaders believe that "there is at least a fair chance he will consent to run."

Meanwhile, Mayor Walker spent his first week-end in many years as a private citizen in resting at the Larchmont, N. Y., home of his friend, A. C. Blumenthal. He was described as "tired out" from the strain of attending his removal hearings and the shock of his brother's death.

Herzog, Joseph Morgan, Miss Jane Van Etten, Mrs. W. Anderson Carl, Alfred Schmid, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. Joseph McNeils and Mrs. Mary Gordon.

LEATHER MAKING SHOWS SIGNS OF BETTERMENT

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—The business of leather making, which had its start in prehistoric times and even antedates agriculture as an industry, is now showing signs of betterment due to a sudden increase in the manufacturing of shoes.

Latest figures of the Department of Commerce show that in July shoe production declined to 20,437,000 pairs. A figure that is below the total of any previous month in ten years. It was 28 per cent below the month a year ago. It was a decline of more than 3,561,000 from the June total.

The decline in retail orders in the explanation furnished for this sharp shrinkage, but today it appears that these orders were merely deferred, they now are increasing and some shoe factories which were cautiously cutting down production one month ago have stepped up to the full-time operation.

But despite this new increase, it is estimated in the trade that shoe production for 1932 may fall below the 300,000,000 pair mark for the first time since 1921. For the first seven months of the year, however, the total was only 9.4 under the 1931 level, which is taken to indicate that the 28 per cent decline in July was substantially bigger than the decline in consumer demand really warranted. It is possible, some manufacturers now believe, that considerable slack may be made up between now and the end of the year.

Shoe manufacturing is the principal use to which leather is put. Consequently, the recent advance in hide prices is attributed to the sudden stepping up of shoe productions.

NO CLUE IN SLAYING OF JERANE IBERSHOFF.

Brig, Switzerland, Sept. 5 (AP).—Questioning of Helen Ibershoff had given the police no clue today in the slaying of her sister, Jerane, 21-year-old smith College student, whose body was found at the foot of Zermatt Mountain last week. An unidentified vagrant is sought as a suspect.

Helen Ibershoff is waiting at Viege for her mother, who is en route from their home at Cleveland, O. She told police that her sister started by bicycle Thursday morning from Zermatt to Viege. She was delayed while her bicycle was repaired and planned to meet Jerane that afternoon in Viege.

When she got to Viege and did not find her sister, Helen sought her all Thursday night, traversing the route on foot.

At dawn gendarmes told her sister's body had been discovered. She was taken to the spot and fainted.

The girl apparently was killed with a rock. The body is to be cremated.

MAY DISPOSE OF PROPERTY WITHOUT HUSBAND'S CONSENT

Manila, P. I., Sept. 5 (AP).—At a turbulent session the Philippine legislature today enacted a bill giving women on the islands the right to dispose of their own property without the consent of their husbands.

The measure was previously passed by the senate and Governor General Theodore Roosevelt has indicated he would sign it.

Women's club leaders hailed the enactment as a big advance toward formally recognizing the influence of Filipino women. They announced they would press for a passage of the women's suffrage measure which was approved by the house a year ago but defeated in the senate.

SOUTH FLORIDA PREPARES FOR ANOTHER STORM

Miami, Fla., Sept. 5 (AP)—South Florida today prepared to weather another tropical storm as a disturbance was reported coursing through the Bahama Islands some 140 miles southeast of Nassau and 300 miles east southeast of Miami.

No high winds were reported from the actual storm area, but the steamship Tarrabona, which gave a position 285 miles east of Miami, last night reported a 60 mile gale.

Richard W. Gray, Miami meteorologist, said the storm apparently was approaching Nassau and probably would pass near there this afternoon but would not cause any high winds on the lower Florida east coast until tonight or tomorrow.

Correct English

An authority on correct English speaks as follows in regard to the position of personal pronouns connected by the conjunction. "When two or more personal pronouns in the singular are connected by 'and' the second person precedes the first and the third, and the third person precedes the first; when the pronouns are used together in the plural number, the first person precedes the second and the third, and the second person precedes the third."

Wordy Chinese Politeness

In China when a subscriber rings up the telephone exchange the operator asks: "What number does the honorable son of the moon and stars desire?" After a short silence the exchange resumes, "Will the honorable person graciously forgive the inadequacy of the insignificant service and permit this humble slave of the wire to inform him that the never-to-be-sufficiently-censored line is engaged?"

Bucher-DuMond.

A simple, yet very beautiful wedding took place at high noon, in the historic First Dutch Church on Sunday, September 4, when Miss Augusta S. Du Mond, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Du Mond, was united in marriage to the Rev. J. Theodore Bucher, minister of Bethany Reformed Church, of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. The double ring ceremony was used, and the officiating clergyman was the Rev. Vincent W. Bucher, son of the bridegroom, who on this happy occasion, performed his first marriage ceremony having been ordained to the ministry only a few months ago. Immediately preceding the ceremony the communion was administered by Dr. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the church, who was assisted by Elder Joiachim H. Davis, uncle of the bride and Elliot Davis, the bride's cousin. The marriage ceremony then followed having the communion table with its beautiful service and tall lighted candles as a background. The pulpit was artistically decorated with goldenrod and other of the season's wild flowers. The bride was unattended. She wore a gown of peach crepe and picture hat of lace. Her corsage was of talisman roses. It was a family wedding. The guests being the relatives of Miss DuMond and her close friends, the ladies of the Home for the Aged, whom she has so faithfully and lovingly served as matron for the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Davis of 54 Washington avenue, gave a wedding dinner in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Bucher following the ceremony. The young people who assisted in the serving were relatives of the bride: Miss Verna Sheeley, Miss Pauline Parks, Miss Elsie Glass, Donald Davis, Stuart Parks, Edward Glass. The tables were beautifully decorated, the wedding cake occupying the conspicuous center of the table of the bridal party. Among the guests were J. H. Davis, Conrad Davis, Mrs. Lamira Sheeley, the Misses Grace, Edna and Marcia DuMond, Mrs. Halsey Terwilliger, Dr. and Mrs. Lucas Boeve, and the Rev. Vincent Bucher. Dr. and Mrs. Bucher expect to be at home, at 1107 Chestnut Boulevard, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, after September 19. On Saturday evening a farewell fellowship service was held at the Home for the Aged, the Rev. Vincent Bucher giving a graphic account of his experiences the past summer among the native children of the Ozark Mountains of Missouri. The Rev. J. Theodore Bucher brought the concluding message of what proved to be a most profitable evening. The friends at the Home presented Miss DuMond with a gift of beautiful glassware in token of their esteem and appreciation of the very efficient head of their Home the past year.

WAS NATIONALLY KNOWN UTILITIES EXPERT.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP).—William D. B. Ainey, 63, nationally known utilities expert, who resigned a month ago as chairman of the Pennsylvania public service commission, died at his home last night.

Ainey, chairman 17 years, resigned after Governor Gifford Pinchot had accused him of accepting gratuities from utilities officials and had forced the State Senate to start an investigation.

He denied Pinchot's charges and said he was resigning because his health and financial resources would not permit him to undergo the ordeal of an investigation.

Ainey spent four years in Congress and two terms as district attorney of his native Susquehanna county.

Keen Interest In Two State Conventions

Washington, Sept. 5 (AP)—The outcome of state conventions in Kentucky and Connecticut Wednesday where candidates for the Senate probably will be picked from the House is awaited with unusually keen interest in the capitol along with the results of the Democratic senatorial primaries in Georgia September 14.

Kentucky Republicans have gained the consent of Representative Maurice H. Thatcher to pit him against Senator Alben W. Barkley, keynoter at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, and his nomination is virtually assured.

Thatcher led the Republican ticket in the state primaries for representative at large and is conceded to be the outstanding rival for Barkley. He is well known throughout the state for his service in Congress as well as a state and federal official.

Connecticut Democrats are reported here as strong for Representative Augustine Lonergan. Despite a three cornered race, many expect to nominate him at the convention at Eastern Point. On Tuesday, the Republicans convene at New Haven, and Senator Hiram Bingham is expected to be renominated.
